

COUNTY UNIT WORKS HARD AT TRAINING

A group in C squadron, Queen's York Rangers, look into the twin diesel engines of a Sherman tank while an instructor explains the details. The men in the unit pick up much useful knowledge about engines and equipment in their training with the squadron as well as prepare themselves for any future national emergency that could occur. In the event of war, the regiment could form the basis for a larger active unit. Era and Express photos.

Lt. R. E. Johnson is instructing a group from C Squadron on elementary motors at the armories, Aurora. At the left is the barrel of a tank gun. Men travel two nights a week from the surrounding districts in the county to train with the armored regiment. Weekend training manoeuvres are held periodically on unused land belonging to Bill Linton in Whitechurch twp. Era and Express photo.

ENTHUSIASTIC COUNTY UNIT

Rangers Train For Uncertain Future

Two Sundays ago the Queen's York Rangers, C Squadron, headquarters at Aurora, were manoeuvring their Sherman and Grizzly tanks in the sandy hills of Bill Linton's farm near the Vivian Forest. It was part of the training exercises that the reserve men are undergoing every week.

Every Tuesday and Thursday night C squadron men who represent the suburban and northern part of York County in the county's own armored regiment take theoretical training in the new armories at Aurora. Their Shermans and Grizzlies have been rolled into the fluorescent lighted building on a new armory-plate floor. Their machines are beside them during instructional class work and in a moment they jump into their positions in the tanks for simulated action.

The new commanding officer of C squadron at Aurora is a young veteran, Major Archie McGinnis, Maple, who took over from Maj. J. F. Westhead, now second in command of the entire regiment.

The O.C.'s first concern is with the job that the unit has to do, in the "raw recruits" and in a wide variety of training and activity for the men.

"This regiment has a long and interesting history behind it but more important than that, we are chiefly concerned with the present and new recruits, especially in times like these," said Major McGinnis.

It is obvious that the officers and men of this reserve unit have a strong conviction that "preparedness" is the key word of the present and that the number of trained men we have in this country may be a decisive factor in its future.

"Not only that," one officer said, "I think that I would rather be trained for my own personal protection if there is another war. I wouldn't want to be in a position where I didn't have any military training. Being in the reserve too, I would go active in the branch I want to be in."

Men travel from as far away as Sharon, Newmarket, Willowdale and King township to take their reserve training with this armored unit. All are proud to belong to a home unit and have a conviction that they are doing their part in the national defence.

Legion Seeks Books For Overseas, Offers Blood Clinic And Donors

The response to book collections for overseas forces has been good, according to Maj. T. M. Ewing, chairman of the Newmarket Legion's education committee. Maj. Ewing asks that the public continue to support the cause.

Last week the first shipment left Newmarket when 10 cases of books were sent. Book collection depots are at the Embassy Beauty Salon, the town clerk's office and the Corner Cupboard. Books and magazines may be left there.

At the next general meeting of the Newmarket branch, February 24, initiation of new members, the first this year, will be held. All members who have not been initiated are requested to attend.

tion of a scroll of merit to the branch by the York County hospital medical staff. The scroll is to be awarded to the Legion for its blood donor service to the Newmarket hospital. Some 50 transfusions have been given at the York County hospital and several at Toronto hospitals. Presentation will be made by Dr. Blackwell, president of the York County hospital medical staff.

The branch is continuing its local blood donor service by offering the local Red Cross use of the Legion Hall as a blood donor clinic and has offered 50 donors as a beginning. This offering was made following Mr. Claxton's announcement that the Canadian Red Cross had been appointed to institute and operate blood banks for an emergency.

fence. C Squadron is prepared to take on new recruits. In particular, the squadron is interested in the stable kind of citizen who believes his country should be prepared.

In the event of war, the regiment could form the basis for a larger active unit. In case of any kind of emergency, the unit could be called out to do military police work in this area.

Military training is not the only important aspect of the reserve unit. What the men learn in their training, especially with tanks, cannot be denied as useful knowledge for civilian life. For instance, a young farmer can pick up a lot of useful information about mechanics which will help him in his own work with equipment at home.

A pleasant social life goes along with work in the squadron. There is a comfortable men's mess and an officers' mess in the remodelled armories where they gather after training is over.

An important phase of activities is the chaplain's hour when there are discussion groups on current problems. It is usually opened by a talk by the regiment's chaplain, Rev. Keith Perdue, formerly of Aurora. Last Tuesday night, Mr. Perdue opened a discussion by defining two economic extremes, capitalism and communism. Before the discussion period was over both officers and men had found many faults in both systems.

"We will leave the subject and you can all think about it," the chaplain said as he ended the discussion period.

So the activities of C squadron, Queen's York Rangers vary from manoeuvring Sherman tanks in the sandy hills of Whitechurch township to evening discussion groups in the mess.

"I think this outfit is a good thing for a young fellow to be in," said one non-commissioned man. "But you know what young fellows are these days. There are not too many interested."

The squadron has something of a record in reserve circles too. At present there are four young reserve men from the squadron on officer training courses. Gerry Barker and Robin Rowat, both of Aurora, are at Camp Borden.

Two District Students Describe Impressions Of Visit To United Nations

Two district high school students were among a group of 11 which toured New York City and visited the United Nations headquarters last week. Chosen by their student councils to represent their schools were Lowell Keffer, Newmarket, and an Aurora high school student, Donald Rawlings, King.

Sponsored by headmasters of schools, alumni associations and other organizations, the group of students flew to New York with Mr. E. Newell, principal at Markham, Mrs. Newell and Rev. Herman, Markham.

Both students, fifth formers, visited various parts of the city and saw the United Nations' new secretariat building. At Lake Success they were not able to see a meeting of the security council, but attended a committee meeting of UNESCO. They also heard lectures on the secretariat and the security council.

"We watched the UNICEF meeting which was represented by 26 countries," said Lowell Keffer. "It was in a large, modern conference room with a circular table and central chairs. Visitors were supplied with chairs and earphones. There was a delegate and sub-delegate for each country."

"Lie was not there; we heard a Russian resolution to exclude Nationalist China from UNICEF and include Communist China. Russia was ruled out of order but the Russian delegate asked for a vote. The chair was upheld in the vote. We heard a resolution to elect Mrs. Sinclair, the Canadian representative, chairman of the committee by France and supported by Brazil, China, Switzerland, U.S.A. and the Dominican Republic. The Soviet delegate demanded that a ballot be taken. Mrs. Sinclair was elected."

Donald Rawlings' impression of the United Nations at Lake Success has led him to believe that "things would go well with the world if the people of the nations would discuss problems with as much complacency as did the delegates of the committee they saw, apart from the occasional monkey wrench thrown into discussions by the Russian delegate."

The decision of the General Assembly to build permanent headquarters in the city of New York provides a building costing 65 million dollars. "It seems to be all glass on two sides," said Lowell Keffer. "Actually it looks like a big sandwich. I was a bit disappointed in its appearance." Already offices are set up for the secretariat which is headed by the secretary general, Trygve Lie, composing a staff of 4,000.

"The financial set-up of United Nations is intriguing," Rawlings pointed out. "A huge structure of figures, it represents a budget approved by the General Assembly with contributions varying according to the economic status and size of the individual country and its ability to pay."

The chambers of the Security Council at Lake Success were seen by the student body. The telephonic system of simultaneous interpretation of speeches in the five working languages of

So great was the success of the Legion essay contest last year and so widespread was the interest in the project that the Ontario provincial command is sponsoring a similar contest this year through the local branches.

Allan Jackson, Newmarket high school, was the provincial winner last year and was given an air trip to Ottawa and return. Details will be in the hands of school principals in Newmarket this week.

County To Put Civil Defence On Local Level

Newmarket and Aurora have appointed civil defence co-ordinators who will work with the county organization. The appointments were made at the request of Warden W. E. Brandon who is chairman of the Toronto and York defence committee.

Aurora has appointed Col. John M. Meldram as co-ordinator. At present time, Newmarket's appointee had not been named. Members of the municipal councils in the district were also invited to attend a civilian defence meeting in the county council chambers tonight (Thursday). Films of atomic bombing and civilian defence organization will be shown, and a talk on steps taken by federal and provincial governments will be given.

Aurora council had before it an offer from the Aurora branch of the Canadian Legion for every assistance in setting up a civilian defence group in Aurora. In Newmarket, the Legion branch plans to discuss the whole question thoroughly at the next general meeting, on Monday. Tentative plans call for setting up a fact-finding committee.

"A lot of work is being done by a lot of people to establish a civil defence system," said Mayor Joseph Vale of Newmarket. He said that co-ordinators named by the local councils would act as a liaison officer, bringing the key personnel in each locality in direct touch with the county organization.

Lions Open Crippled Kids Fund Campaign

The Newmarket Lions club is local sponsor of the Society for Crippled Children "Easter Seal" campaign which opens next Monday. Charles E. Boyd is chairman of the club committee. The Easter Seal campaign is modelled after the Christmas T.B. seals, with sheets of seals being mailed by the club to local residents with a request that they return their contribution to the fund as payment.

As with the T.B. seals, there is no fixed price, only what the donor is able to give.

Announcing the campaign, Mr. Boyd gave some details of the society's work, which included operation of special camps for crippled children and the provision of necessary care to all those who need it. Some idea of the scope of the society's work is seen in the fact that 4,591 active cases are under the society's care.

The motto of the society is that "No crippled child in Ontario will be neglected."

Mr. Boyd said this committee was making every effort to contact all in the district for their contributions. He urged those who were missed to contact members of the club with their contributions.

Reserved seat tickets for the Newmarket Dramatic Club's play Arsenic and Old Lace, March 9 and 10, are on sale at Atkinson's Drugs.

The outbreak of influenza in Newmarket and district seemed to reach its peak on Tuesday this week. Factories, businesses and schools were affected. Some district businesses were badly crippled with staffs absent because of the illness.

Dr. R. M. King, medical officer of health for the York county health unit, said this week that it was hitting the people in the district in about the same proportion as the rest of the province. He said that it was difficult to estimate the number of persons ill this week.

"There is no cause for alarm," he said, "and there is no justification at the present time to close any schools or public meeting places."

Some suggestions he gave were to avoid excessive fatigue and get plenty of rest; call the family physician if fever, sore throat, cough, vomiting or diarrhoea lasts more than 24 hours and does not appear to be improving; avoid unnecessary attendance at public meeting places during the present time.

On Tuesday 20 to 25 percent of the pupils and staff were away from Newmarket high school. Supervising principal H. A. Jackson of the Newmarket public schools said that out of 751 pupils, 191 were absent.

York County hospital was not taking any of the ordinary 'flu cases. Officials there said that influenza being a contagious disease, carriers could not be allowed in a hospital where surgery was being carried on.

One physician said that it has been a mild form of influenza causing various complaints such as sore throats, sore chests, dizziness and vomiting. He said that if the sickness continued more than four or five days, it could possibly develop into bronchial pneumonia.

In Newmarket, Aurora and Mount Albert, druggists said they were doing a large amount of business in prescriptions for influenza treatments. Schomberg reported that influenza had not affected adults as much as school children.

Era And Express Hard Hit

There was some doubt this week if the Era and Express would be published on Thursday. Yes, as everywhere else, 'flu took its toll. On Tuesday afternoon, five staff members were 'flu-bound, and Sports Editor George Haskett added the finishing touch by phoning from his home in a woeful voice to report that he and his family were all sick.

With a compositor and a linotypist home, progress was slow in the composing room. News editor Jack Struthers was editing his copy from his bed. Alice Gibbons was missing from the office, and the managing editor was anxiously taking temperatures of the rest of the staff when he was finally laid low himself.

Those of the staff still on their feet doubled up in a variety of jobs. The advertising manager turned reporter and the book-keeper became a proof reader. And thanks to all their efforts, the paper is out on time although not as large as was intended.

Council Delays Naming Of School Arbitrator Until Books Gone Over

The Newmarket public school board took its petition for a union school section with parts of Whitechurch and East Gwillimbury to council Monday night. Chairman J. L. R. Bell, the secretary, Robert Pritchard and the solicitor, K. M. R. Stiver, went over all financial figures with council and the school inspector, O. M. McKillop. Council did not appoint an arbitrator.

Mr. McKillop said that he would like council to appoint an arbitrator as soon as possible to sit on the board which will decide what share of Newmarket schools until the end of March. He said that trustees in S. S. 3, East Gwillimbury, had agreed to pay non-resident school fees for students attending Newmarket schools until the end of March. Mr. McKillop pointed out other aspect of last year's change in the grant scheme that compensated for the drop.

It was also revealed during the discussions that since Newmarket had gone over the 5,000 population mark, the government grant on education costs will be down to 29 percent in 1951. Mr. McKillop pointed out other aspect of last year's change in the grant scheme that compensated for the drop.

Mention was also made that three rooms were now vacant in Newmarket schools, two of them in the new Prince Charles Urge Aurora Council To Give Mechanics Hall Operation To Rec. Com.

Chairman Don Glass of the Aurora Recreation Commission strongly urged on Monday night that the Mechanics' Hall be retained by the town, and handed over to the commission to operate. "Ever since the commission has been formed," he said, "we have been short of space for our activities."

He presented a five-page brief on behalf of the commission. Council accepted the brief after some discussion, and Mr. Glass was told that the council would announce its decision shortly.

The Mechanics' Hall will become vacant shortly when the Aurora Textiles, which has occupied the building for the past five years, moves into its new quarters. Council called for tenders on the sale or lease of the building. The recreation commission and the Lions club have both asked council to keep the building for a municipal hall.

"We believe that the recreation commission has the support of the overwhelming majority of Aurora citizens in its request," said Mr. Glass. The brief asked that: The Mechanics' Hall, on its

York Jersey Club Meet At Don Head Feb. 27

As announced at the annual meeting, the York County Jersey club has been invited to hold its barn meeting at Don Head Farms, Richmond Hill, on Tuesday, Feb. 27, and the executive has completed arrangements for an interesting afternoon's program starting at 1.30. A tour of the various barns will be made to give the members an opportunity to see the entire herd of some 200 head.

A feature of the afternoon will be a herd classification demonstration by Professor George Rathby of the Ontario Agricultural College who is so well known to all Jersey breeders. As there is a full afternoon, president Hugh Sheardown, Schomberg, hopes everyone will make a special effort to be on hand at 1.30 so the program can be completed before 4 o'clock.

Farm Mechanics Course Proves Popular

A full house greeted instructor R. G. Gregg of the department of agricultural engineering from the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, when he arrived at the agricultural office, Newmarket, for the tractor and farm machinery short course last week.

W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, welcomed the 90 who were present and called on his assistant, J. W. McCullough, to introduce the speaker.

Monday afternoon was devoted to proper lubrication of tractors, winterizing, care and adjustment of ignition and carburetors, followed by a motion picture film on tractor operation and maintenance. As an added feature, Mr. Gregg showed a film on contour cultivation.

Tuesday afternoon brought out an equally large crowd for the discussion of care of farm machinery which included adjustment of plows, illustrated by charts, and a motion picture on care and adjustment of mowers. While many are going into combines, several questions on binder knotters came up for discussion.

Mr. Jasper spoke at the organization meeting of the King township federation recently. He comes from Midland, and the theme of his talk will be what the federation means to the farmers.

The sponsorship of this public meeting is part of the East Gwillimbury federation's yearly program. Other speakers are intended for future meetings.

"Small houses can give people big ideas!"

"Sounds funny, I know. But this house might have given you the same idea I had—if you'd been in my shoes the other day.

"I'd just dropped around with my son Bob and his family to see how their new house was getting on. It seemed to me to be just perfect for them. Cute, trim and practical. But small. There certainly wouldn't be room for anyone but them.

"Suddenly the thought hit me—What if I had to move in with them because I didn't have enough to live on after I'd retired?

"Then and there I resolved never to let that happen. Sure, there may be plans for paying old-age benefits to everyone someday. But I'll need extra income to make sure that I'll be completely independent. And the best way to get it is by increasing my life insurance.

"That plan seemed so logical I wondered why I hadn't thought of it before. And when I saw my agent I discovered how flexible life insurance can be—how it fits my own needs and my wife's need for protection.

"So now I'm building security for myself and my family the best possible way—with life insurance!"

Isn't it queer how just a word now and again will carry you back years and years—and things seem as vivid to you as they did then? And what was that magic word that carried me back over the years? China New Year—I believe the voice over the radio said Chinese New Year, but we called it "New Year"—and any year that has lived a year in the west coast will tell you the magic words.

The wedding of the Shans last week had nothing to out-class the China New Year I saw in New Westminster, B.C., and Vancouver. It was gorgeous; colorful is too mild a term to describe what I saw that wonderful night. Being invited, and being on a "conducted tour", so to speak, we saw only the best things and the beauty of it! We were treated like princesses, the girls of the party. It was noisy with firecrackers, but we were young enough to enjoy all that part of it.

I still recall long strings of firecrackers at the end of what appeared to be a fishing pole held in the hands of shiny-eyed small boys up on the balcony of the two-storey Chinese stores—and one set fire to the next till the whole string was a noisy, sputtering, flashing line of fire and the air full of that firecracker smoke. All up and down the street small boys were busy with their firecrackers. Older boys formed up for picturesque lantern parades, beautiful lighted Chinese lanterns of fantastic shapes—alternated with a huge paper fish floating bravely from the end of a long pole.

Chinese Dragon

Of course, the Chinese dragon had also to parade—I don't know how many men it takes for that fearsome sight. And then the Chinese music! Did I say music? Their idea of music is weird to our ears, but they play their instruments with much gusto and enjoyment. Noise seems to be their main object. And laughter! How the Chinese do enjoy themselves on China New Year! The older folk pay ceremonious visits, and it was in the houses to which we were taken that we saw wonderful things. Beautiful, costly embroidery, priceless china, magnificent oriental robes that I imagine are worn only once a year. Joss Sticks in quaint oriental incense burners made the air heavy.

We had been instructed how to act before going. We also went laden with gifts—and we went home, more laden still, with Chinese gifts, fruit, candy, lichi nuts, Chinese silken scarves and heavily embroidered fancy things made by the Chinese women. The women were not in evidence, whatever. It was the Chinese men who made and served us delicious tea in tiny delicate egg-shell cups with no handles.

Attars in Homes

In each home there seemed to be a ceremonial erection which I would have called an altar—all arranged with their choicest embroidery and drapes, with priceless ornaments adorning the table below—and always the incense burning, giving off that pungent odor. And every so often somebody sounded a musical gong with a padded clapper. Perhaps you are wondering why I was an invited guest. Well, certain of us from the church I attended used to go every Wednesday evening to the Chinese Mission to help teach English to the Chinese. The T-Lees were very glad to have the mission operate and to show appreciation extended the invitation to our rector to take us to China New Year. I was in the choir and was invited with the rest, under the protection and guidance of our rector and the young men of the choir, and were well taken care of and were shown beautiful things. They seemed as pleased to have us as we were to be present. We went from one home or store to another, and at each place one of us left our gift of a large frosted layer cake, which pleased them greatly and they showered us with gifts in return.

It was like the Arabian Nights stories come to life. It could never be the same again—it's always the first time that impresses itself on our minds—and course conditions could never be the same again!

A quaint superstition clings to China New Year—it is regarded as the first day of spring and spring means eggs—and in that eggs are supposed to stand for new life. (I admit I couldn't make them do it!)

Pine Orchard News

The fourth meeting of The Milky Way was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Lehman on Thursday, Feb. 15. After the minutes and the roll-call, the discussion was "Milk in the Family Menu". The demonstrations were given by the leaders and they were for cornstarch pudding and Spanish cream. We later ate them. The home assignment and roll-call were given and we were then served a nice lunch by Mrs. Lehman. This week's meeting was held at the home of Beth Johnston.

In spite of so much illness there was a good attendance at the W.I. family night at the Union church on Friday night, Feb.

16. After a bountiful supper, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mrs. Walter Johnston. Rev. R. R. McMath, Newmarket, in his friendly manner spoke briefly. Mrs. Ross Armitage presented prizes to the school children who wrote an examination on the temperance course. The highest marks went to Helen Simcoe and Janet Henry. Congratulations!

Mrs. Howard McClure was chairman for the program. A group of girls accompanied by Miss Betty Hope sang a couple of well chosen numbers. Mr. Tice, Newmarket, presented a number of films which were thoroughly enjoyed. The film, Across Canada, was both beautiful and educational. We are grateful to Mr. Tice for his generosity in assisting with the program.

The W.I. croquignole party at the school on Friday night, March 2, welcomes everybody. Prizes and lunch.

A progressive euchre will be held at the school on Friday evening, February 23. Prizes and lunch. Proceeds for Pine Orchard ball team. Those who are interested are requested to bring cards and tables. Everybody welcome.

Mr. F. Smart, Toronto, was the speaker at the Church of Christ on Sunday, Feb. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Smart, Toronto, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McClure.

Mrs. Byers, Toronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Rae McClure.

Mr. Norman Foster, Newmarket, won the carving set donated by the Pine Orchard W.I. in a draw.

Mr. Nathan Mair, Union church, delivered an interesting sermon on a series on "God", on Sunday, Feb. 18.

On Sunday, Feb. 25, Mr. Arthur Borland, pastor of Christian-Congregational church at Stouffville, will be in charge of service at Union church. His subject will be "God's Will for Us".

Thought for the week, "What kind of a church would my church be if all its members were just like me?"

MAPLE HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pollard entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gillion last Friday night. It was their 30th wedding anniversary. Many neighbors and friends gathered. Mr. and Mrs. Gillion received many lovely gifts. A dainty lunch was served.

Several families are down with flu. Miss Viola Gillion, London, spent the weekend at her home. Word was received from Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Large last week that they had a good trip and arrived safely in Peru, South America, early in February.

Sunday-school next Sunday at 10.30. Church service at 11.30. A welcome awaits you.

Attention "Signs of Spring department": Master Teddy Foster, a young man of inquiring disposition from up Second St. way, was into the office on Thursday.

"What," he asked, "does it mean if I find a frog?"

No one seemed to have the answer. We murmured vaguely, made gestures in the direction of the encyclopedia. Possibly it was simply that the frog was darn fool to come out of his mud in this kind of weather, we suggested hopefully. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," says Teddy, "I found one." And he dropped a live, damp and squirming frog on the desk.

There were startled shrieks from the ladies. Teddy calmly picked up his friend and returned him to his jacket pocket, and was on his way. At the door, he turned with the added information that he found the frog in the creek.

Thank you Teddy, for your visit.

The number of cases of 'flu seems to be creating something of a social problem as well as causing considerable inconvenience and suffering to its victims. A simple cold no longer rates in the better circles. The 'flu victims have taken on a certain amount of caste, and make a closed circle as they discuss their symptoms with alarming frankness.

But if the 'flu victims are snobbish to more casual convalescents, within their ranks there is dissension. It seems there are several degrees of having the 'flu, and those who suffer only lightly are themselves scarcely spoken to by those who suffer greatly.

We have, and we suspect numerous others of doing the same, described our simple head cold as "flu, with complications" so that we may hold our place with the best of them.

FEBRUARY 19, 1926

There was an exceptionally good market last Saturday morning for this time of year. There was no change in the price of butter, 45 and 46 cents being the ruling figures. Eggs sold from 35 to 40 cents and quite a lot of potatoes sold at $3 a bag.

J. D. Rowland and Verne Noble attended the hardware convention held at the King Edward hotel, Toronto, on Tuesday.

The Grand Ice Festival held at the Mount Albert skating rink on Monday was a great success. Proceeds were $120. Ben Bowen refereed a girls' broomball game which resulted in a tie. The crowning of the queen, Miss Doris Stokes, and the king, Frank Ross, by Rev. H. A. Hutchinson was the main feature of the evening.

Mr. Fleming Young has purchased a home on Raglan St. from Mr. G. F. Ingram, Kitchener, and will take possession shortly.

Messrs. Jas. McDevitt, Ken Holmes and Wm. Shaw, Schomberg, attended the convention of the agricultural societies at the King Edward, Toronto.

The right-of-way for the drainage canal at Bradford is being cleared by 75 men divided into 35 gangs.

A branch of the W.I. was organized at Oak Ridges at the home of Mrs. Durham. Mrs. W. Steeper, Mount Albert, district president, organized the branch assisted by Mrs. C. R. Doane, Mrs. R. A. Starr, Newmarket, and Mrs. H. J. Charles, Aurora. Ten members were enrolled. Those elected were: pres., Mrs. Durham; vice pres., Mrs. F. Legge; Mrs. F. Legge; sec-treas., Mrs. H. Mitchell, assist. treas., Mrs. Maxwell.

FEBRUARY 22, 1901

There was a big crowd in town last Saturday and a good market. Eighteen cents was the ruling price for fresh eggs and from 18 to 20 cents for butter. Dressed turkeys sold from nine to ten cents a lb., dressed chickens from 50 to 75 cents a pair. Pork went as high as $8.50, beef five and a half and six and a half cents per lb. by the quarter; mutton six and a half to ten cents per lb. Mr. John Moore, Mount Albert, has a valuable coin the size of the English shilling. On one side is the Queen's head surrounded by the inscription "Her Majesty Queen Victoria I" and on the reverse side the royal crown and sword and sceptre crossed around which are the words "Crowned June 28, 1838".

The acetylene gas company has completed the installation of its large plant at Aurora, and the gas was turned on for the first time from the large generator last Friday. The plant is of the latest design and has a capacity of about 800 lights.

There was a "regular" circus in the yard of the Jackson hotel last Saturday morning during the sale of the Indian ponies brought down from the Northwest. They sold all the way from $7 to $45 each.

Mr. L. G. Jackson is in Hamilton this week attending Grand Lodge A.O.U.W. as representative from Newmarket. Mr. J. C. McFarland is representing Queensville lodge.

A splendid meeting of those interested in a sugar beet factory for Newmarket was held recently. Two hundred farmers were in attendance. Councillor C. E. Lundy occupied the chair.

THURSDAY, THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF FEBRUARY, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE IS EXEMPTION THE ANSWER?

The council of the township of Whitchurch has asked for an amendment to the Assessment Act which would permit exemption of rural properties from school and police taxation where those costs are inflated by urban developments. The township took this action after hearing a delegation of farmers who pointed out that where there were part rural, part urban municipalities, the rural properties paid taxes out of proportion.

To the best of our knowledge, this is the first definite step taken to relieve a long standing injustice. Whitchurch council is to be congratulated for acting. But while admitting the need for relief of rural property owners living near urban developments, we question if the Whitchurch proposal is the right solution.

Rural property owners, whether near urban developments or not, have school and police costs. They can scarcely expect complete exemption from these costs as a means of equalizing property taxation. In fairness to both parties, some sort of a percentage would have to be worked out. Once established, it could apply not only to police and school taxes, but to road and health costs which are also increased by urban developments. But could such a formula be established, particularly when the percentage of urban and rural properties is constantly changing?

We would suggest instead, that the whole basis of property taxation be re-examined. For example, rural property bordering an urban development is frequently increased in value because it offers an opportunity for sub-division into small housing lots which would sell for a higher total value than if it were an isolated property. But if it is true that the property has increased potential value, is it fair to tax the owner on it? Particularly when he is still farming the land as he did ten years ago?

We would suggest that instead of granting arbitrary exemptions, the whole basis of assessment be revised so that there would be no conflict between property and population which, after all, is what the issue boils down to. The example of School Section Number Three, stated in these columns last week, demonstrates this. The south end of the section is heavily urbanized; the north end is rural. The tax per capita in the south end is higher than in the north. When more school accommodation was required, it became obvious that the rural properties simply couldn't stand increased taxation even while the population of the urban area required the school accommodation.

The school section is likely to get out of its difficulty by forming a union section with Newmarket. But had this not been practical, the only alternative would have been a re-assessment which would have equalized taxes between north and south—and there is no provision for such a form of equalization under our present system.

TREND TOWARDS CENTRAL GOVERNMENT

Discussion of the road budget for 1951, a and consideration of the financing of the new public school were held up in Aurora town council on Monday night pending decisions on these issues from the provincial departments of highways and education respectively. This is a somewhat minor inconvenience, it is true, but it does illustrate how dependent local municipalities have become upon provincial action.

This is a serious matter. The autonomy of local governments is the cornerstone of our system of self government. Anything which detracts from the exercise of local authority weakens that system. The encroachment of provincial authority is the more insidious because it comes under the guise of financial assistance to municipalities which are hard put to maintain their administrations in this age of inflated costs and increased demand for municipal services.

Municipal governments have only one major source of taxation, from property. Tax rates in Newmarket, Aurora and most of the district municipalities are higher than they have ever been, and are likely to go higher. But even though municipal income has greatly increased in recent years, local government would be unable to provide adequate services without the help of provincial grants.

The province pays grants in nearly every department of local government. If the money could be paid according to need, there would be no complaint, but the province insists upon these grants being spent within the terms the province considers best for all. The result has been the imposition upon local governments of provincial policies. Alternatively, the situation could be stated from this point of view: that because of their dependence upon provincial grants, local governments are required to submit to provincial authority.

In most instances these policies are good. There have been exceptions when a blanket policy established by Queen's Park is just not applicable to local conditions, but for all of this incongruity, it has had to be adopted anyway. It is not, however, the provincial policies which are at issue here, but the development of a system which in the final reckoning, will eventually destroy local government.

A centralized government, and that is what we are getting by this system of grants-in-aid, has a habit of perpetuating itself. The system has been established. Every year sees an extension of it, aided, we are sorry to say, by local governments which, in their quest for financial help, submit themselves further to provincial dictation.

There is only one way out of the problem, and that is to revise the distribution of tax income to give municipalities a larger share. Then they would no longer be dependent upon any other level of government for financial assistance, and could conduct their affairs as they see fit. We have no idea how this is to be done; certainly it is impossible as long as municipalities look to property taxes for their income. Perhaps a per capita share of income tax, or a per capita share of the "hidden" taxes, out of which the provincial government derives the funds it pays to the municipalities, might be the answer.

There is no doubt, however, that such a reform must come about if our system of municipal government is to be retained.

WE WERE JUST ASKING

The question is asked from an honest bewilderment and some concern. It is asked without prejudice, a simple request for information. We would like to know if it is possible for a gang of kids to get together and enjoy a pick-up game of hockey any longer.

Newmarket has one of the most thoroughly organized hockey set-ups for a town its size in Ontario. There is organized hockey for every age group. This constant hockey is maintained by several hard-working, public-spirited men who have wholeheartedly devoted their time and money to managing, coaching, refereeing and financing hockey.

But we honestly wonder if it has gone too far. We know times have changed. But it seems to us that hockey in Ontario has become so dependent upon organization that we wonder if the kids who play it can be really enjoying themselves. Hand in hand with what appears to us to be over-organization is the pot of gold held out by professional hockey. We are told that professional hockey prospects are being signed up at ever younger ages. What used to be a pleasant pastime seems to have become an apprenticeship for an adult career.

Is it a good thing for the kids to have to be so organized? Hockey for the majority of them should be, we would think, a sport to indulge in for its own sake. Is it any longer?

The old timers tell us they used to have a lot of fun and a lot of sport with a pick-up team on a corner pond. We can remember that sort of fun too. We wonder, though, if the kids of today have it. Or maybe, it just wasn't so much fun after all. We would appreciate some advice on the question.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We are a proud people, with our technology, our huge commercial enterprises, our assaults upon time and space. Yes, we are pretty proud. Nothing can stop us—nothing that is except a couple or three bugs. And then all this gigantic effort and accomplishment is slowed to a limping halt. There's nothing like a touch of the 'flu to set you thinking.

A civil defence program for York county is finally beginning to shape up. District municipal councils have been asked to appoint local co-ordinators who will represent the municipalities in the county-wide scheme. The county committee is holding a meeting on Thursday night in the county council chambers when a report on the civil defence practices will be given. Gradually, the organization is sifting down to the level of the people after a long delay in provincial and federal committees.

Office Cat Reports Catnips By Ginger

Your favorite correspondent has been working secretly on a new formula to do away with personal income. Slim Bliggens has been helping with some of the mathematical problems involved. When we finish, we hope to have done away with need for money completely.

I had been looking over the forms to be filled out for income tax returns. There is nothing which stirs up more rebellion in an individual than filling out an income tax form.

I have a burning rage when one of those forces of modern society is brought to bear upon a personal desire for individualism, independence of the soul, and freedom from organization. When an income tax form has the audacity to ask whether my name on the last income tax form I filled out coincides with this one, or when it reminds me in small print that it is a serious offence to make a false income tax return, I eat it. I have eaten several income tax forms while trying to fill out the proper answers.

Why should a cat have to fill out income tax returns, you may ask. Well, that is exactly where you have it. It's just one of those things that the bureaucrats are always up to, meddling into private affairs and trying to squeeze the life blood out of you, and a cat is no exception.

I read that the government will likely have to raise between $500 million and $750 million of new revenue in 1951-52 and that the tax policy is going to be as tough as that. The government thinks the public will bear plus something extra.

That's the government's worry, not mine, and right now I am considering me, not the government. The government is a whole lot bigger than I am, so it won't get hurt.

These insidious income tax forms are probably the whole cause of the invention of manic depressives, persecution complexes, ulcers, acid indigestion, Tingles, Grits and Social Credits as well as the 'flu epidemic.

Unpaid taxes and overdue instalments bear interest at 6 percent per annum. It says. It's not satisfied with wringing you dry, it has to have its miserable 6 percent too. Just try and get 6 percent out of it if you sent in too much money by mistake and see what happens.

"Late filing penalty is 5 percent of tax unpaid at 30th April, 1951." But it is in a hurry to send back what it owes you, and does it pay a fine penalty if it takes several months to send your money back?

But when Slim Bliggens and I get finished inventing our secret formula to do away with income, we won't be bothered with these forms anymore. We can use them to light the stove with. Uncle Tivated, out on the farm could probably use them to advantage. Next year I shall send all my tax forms to him.

Today Slim Bliggens was over in his piano box mansion with a slide rule and a set of logarithm tables computing and perspiring over some of the mathematical problems concerning our new secret formula.

"You know," said Slim, "I think that a simpler way of getting rid of income would be for me just to go back to being a bum again. Much less effort. Before I turned into the profession, I got along pretty well without no income."

"But Slim," said I, "then you wouldn't have the satisfaction of working out a scheme to outmanoeuvre the government with your cunning." So Slim went back to work.

If our scheme is successful, we may even patent it and sell it to the communists.

by "Dairy Farmer" The Top Six Inches

Fools rush in where angels fear to tread, they say, and we are going to open up about margarine. Frankly, we never could understand the force it created and we cannot think of anything which has given us farmers worse publicity at a time we needed good publicity.

The Federation of Agriculture showed poor judgment, we believe, and we don't believe the federation really represented the attitude of all farmers in its petulant utterances.

The appeal to the privy council came as a natural anti-climax with a result anybody could foresee. We hope, although without too much conviction, that none of our varied contributions has ever gone towards that costly and foolish appeal.

Margarine is an artificial spread with fat content and will replace some other fats for certain purposes. We tried to eat it, at first out of curiosity and then for reasons of economy, and have given up both. It doesn't taste good and since it won't spread properly, it isn't economical. We're willing to bet that many people, even those who advocate it, had the same experience. Granted, a great deal of margarine was sold, but was it all replacing butter?

Let us face the facts squarely. Butter was scarce and butter was expensive when margarine was introduced. Any product which is produced inefficiently is expensive, and butter is one of them. Dr. Archibald told us that the average Canadian cow produces 4,000 lbs. of milk per year. If one considers the amount of milk going on the field market out of herds producing twice as much per year, it is easily seen that the butter industry, or rather the milk produced for separating, is by far the least efficient way of producing.

All the help and assistance necessary to improve the efficiency of these herds is available today. Government bulletins will help and they are free. Artificial insemination is available at very low cost. The best market is very high and large direct encouragement is given to low producers. Yet cream is produced the way it is. Why do you expect the government to do? Protect the cream industry and make money for it. It had to allow the sale of a product which will sell cheap.

The federation must have known these facts. Then why the pressure group tactics? It is our guess that it was seen by some of the leaders as an issue that will create enough feeling to help strengthen the federation.

We think it has backfired. It gave us bad publicity and now we have to raise the money to spend on good publicity in order to increase the sale of other dairy products.

We might as well face the fact that margarine is here to stay and we might as well face the fact that it will be always cheaper than butter. The answer for the farmer is to produce butter more efficiently from better cows with less labor and less feed and less effort.

OTTAWA LETTER

by

"Jack" Smith, M.P.

North York

The manpower question or conscription issue which has been a sort of boogey-man in Canadian politics for many years was brought before the house last week by a Social Credit party amendment calling for compulsory service in the reserve forces for home defence.

The amendment was decisively defeated with the official opposition lining up almost solidly with the government.

At the very outset of this session the prime minister made a statement on the manpower issue which was well received throughout Canada and which inspired favorable comment among members of all parties here on Parliament Hill. The P.M. in deploring pro-conscription or anti-conscription appeals based on racial or religious prejudice, said "Let us be men and let us face realities and do what we think will be the most efficient and the most effective as our contribution to building up our international forces."

Continuing and speaking of Canada's defence plans, Mr. St. Laurent said "so far there has been brought to my attention nothing that would indicate that the institution of national selective service at this time would be beneficial. On the contrary the information we have is that it would hamper what is being done at this moment. Now that does not mean that the situation cannot change, and it does not mean that when and if it does change there will not be changes in which the manner in which our resources will be contributed to the pool of international strength."

This was accepted as a statesmanlike statement by a national leader and it was hoped the conscription issue would not be a political issue in our current defence plans.

The amendment put forward by the leader of the ten-man Social Credit group did not call for conscription for national service. It called merely for compulsory service in the reserve force for home defence.

Speaking for the official opposition Major General Pearkes, V.C., rejected the suggestion in a speech which won applause in all sections of the House. The Conservative member from Nanaimo, B.C., speaking with the long experience and training of a military man, said sincerely, frankly and without any tinge of partisan consideration that he didn't think the adoption of such compulsory training at this time would be a help to our defence efforts, and on the contrary he thought it would be a hindrance. Canadair Visit

Last week along with 100 other representatives of the House of Commons and Senate, we visited the famous Canadair plant at Montreal. We made the trip from Ottawa in RCAF planes, leaving here at 9:30 a.m. and returning in time for the 3 p.m. opening of the House.

Construction of the present Canadair plant was completed in 1942 and now is engaged in the manufacture of the F86 Sabre jet plane. The plant now employs 5,500 persons and more will be added as production is stepped up in keeping with Canada's new defence program. The F86 Sabre has a possible speed of 670 miles per hour and a demonstration of its flying ability given to us at Cartier Field greatly impressed us.

It is primarily a high speed, high altitude fighter and may also be used to attack ground or naval targets with gun fire, bombs or rockets. The plane is powered by an axial flow turbo jet engine. The cost of one of these high speed fighters is approximately a half million dollars.

Defence Costs

My mail indicates there is pretty general satisfaction with the announcement of Canada's defence program. Some misgivings, no doubt inspired by misleading press articles that Canada was neglecting the all important job of adequate defence, have been dispelled by the clear-cut program announced by the minister of national defence.

This is a three-year program to involve the expenditure of some five billion dollars. Many times it has been said that while war is not inevitable, neither is peace certain. This large expenditure is felt to be justified as an increased premium to ensure peace. The government program is based on the view that the chance of maintaining peace will increase as the forces to oppose aggression grow stronger.

The large expenditures on defence are brought about by the staggering cost of modern war equipment.

A new anti-submarine vessel costs over $8 million, and a two-engine fighter, $750,000; a single engine jet interceptor nearly half a million, a new airfield with runways and equipment $20 million, a radar station from $3 million to $6 million.

MOUNT ZION

Mrs. John Kellington has returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kellington of Keswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilson, Toronto, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Hoover, Coe Lake, have been visiting in the community. Sunday evening about 20 friends and relatives gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Kellington.

Mr. James Morris spent two days last week in Windsor. While there he visited the Ford plant.

The Young People's service will be held March 2 at Mount Pleasant. Mrs. Eldon Boettger, a returned missionary from Africa, will be the speaker and slides of the country will be shown.

The Communion service will be held at Mount Pleasant, February 25, at 11 a.m.

Church service at Mount Zion Sunday evening will be at 7:30 p.m.

King District Couples Celebrate Anniversaries

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary at their Temperanceville home on Tuesday, Feb. 20, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hare received a large number of friends during the afternoon and evening. They were assisted by the bridesmaid, Miss Ada Grove, Stouffville, who is Mrs. Hare's sister, and Mr. Alvin Mowatt, Scarborough Junction, the bestman. Mrs. Hare was becomingly attired in navy sheer with coupage of yellow roses.

The floral decorations were enhanced by 50 gold roses, the gift of their son, Fred G. Hare, Temperanceville, and their daughter, Thelma, who is Mrs. Frank Breuls, Toronto. The grandchildren, Shirley and Joan Hare, Ross, Phyllis, Gwen and Arlene Breuls were among the guests.

Pouring tea in the afternoon were Mrs. Alvin Mowatt and Mrs. Jacob Grove, Stouffville, sister-in-law of Mrs. Hare. In the evening Mrs. Hare's sisters, Mrs. Kate McNeely and Mrs. Laura Mannah, Toronto, presided. Assisting were Shirley and Joan Hare and Vivian Rose, Aurora. In the evening Phyllis, Gwen, Arlene Breuls and Gloria Oldham, Toronto, assisted in the dining-room. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Hare.

Among the gifts received by the couple were a china tea set from the children and grandchildren, fine cups and saucers from Temperanceville United church, a gold wool blanket, the gift of neighbors, a potted plant presented by the Women's Institute.

Possessing excellent health, Mr. and Mrs. Hare are active in the community. They settled at Temperanceville 28 years ago and operated the general store. They retired five years ago when they built their present commodious home, only to continue in an expansive poultry business established 15 years past. They combine this interest with their son who also carries on the business as a merchant. The outdoor surroundings of their home indicate a love of flowers and shrubs.

Both are members of Temperanceville church. Mrs. Hare belongs to the Women's Missionary Society, the Women's Auxiliary and the local Women's Institute branch. During the last war she was active in Oak Ridges Red Cross branch, her home being open as a distributing centre for material used by workers of the district. Both are staunch Liberals in politics. Mr. Hare shows a keen interest for his party in the local polling sub-division of which he is chairman. He liked football in his younger days and still finds the local "country dance" an occasional pastime.

The couple was born in Markham township and were neighbors "four miles across the fields". As Lydia Grove, Mrs. Hare was the daughter of Abram Grove and Elizabeth Miller, well known farmers of the 8th con. William Stewart Hare was the son of Christopher Hare and Sarah Nigh, old settlers on Markham's 5th con. They were married at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple spent two years on the Hare homestead, when Mr. Hare operated a livery business at Stouffville for three years. After a couple of years in Markham village in the bakery business, they lived in Toronto for a short time where Mr. Hare was connected with the Ocean Blend Tea Company. He established the first Ocean Blend agency in the city of Peterborough 38 years ago. Later he returned to Toronto to set up a retail produce business on Leslie St. Later they moved to a farm at Dixon's Hill owing to Mr. Hare's health. But the urge to return to the business field prompted him to buy the Temperanceville store from the late E. M. Legge.

Eversley Celebrants

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neill, Eversley, were "at home" during the weekend in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary which fell on Monday, Feb. 19. On Sunday their children and grandchildren presented Mr. Neill with a gold-headed cane and his wife a cameo brooch and a gold china tea pot. On Monday Mrs. Neill's brothers gave them a basket of daffodils. Eversley Presbyterian W.A. made a gift of flowers which added a spring-like touch to the living-room. Other gifts from relatives were received.

Among the guests was Mr. Geo. Neill, Jefferson, who was his brother's best man. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Aggie Dixon, Perth, a cousin of the bride, is visiting the couple during this week. Their family is Nora, Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, Shanty Bay; Mildred, Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Eversley; Howard, Eversley, and Roy, Nobleton. There are six grandchildren.

Olive Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Glass, Jefferson, became the bride of Charles Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neill, Jefferson, two days before her 27th birthday. The groom was four years her senior in the following May, 1901. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Kirkby, rector of St. John's Anglican church, at the home of the bride's parents before 30 guests. The wedding day was typical of old time winter weather. After the reception the couple drove by horse and cutter to Aurora where they took the train for Stayner for a honeymoon with the groom's relatives. "We took the wrong direction to find pleasant weather; there was more and more snow the farther north we travelled," said Mrs. Neill.

The couple settled on part of the 200-acre Neill homestead at Jefferson remaining about six years, when they moved to the 2nd con. of Vaughan, later to the 7th of King twp., returning to the Neill estate on Yonge St. More than 30 years ago they took a farm at Eversley where they have since resided. Their son, Howard, operates the farm but Sorry to hear so many members of the community are down with the flu. Don't forget community Club is this Friday night.

Mrs. Frank Hornblow, soprano soloist of Wesley United church, Mimico, will be guest soloist at the morning service at the Christian Baptist church, Newmarket, on Sunday.

Mr. Eddy Depew is returning to King (6) set up a barber shop in Armstrong's hotel. The pool room will be remodelled and operated by him. An outside entrance from the street facing north will be built. Mr. Depew vacated a business here in December and the village has since been without a barber. He will officially open up on Monday, Feb. 26.

Mrs. R. C. Baycroft of Gormley, president of York Centre W. I. district, and Mrs. Jack Gamble attended a meeting of King Institute last week. She was introduced to members by Mrs. A. E. Jarvis.

Roy Bowen's auction sale realized $15,000 when 40 head of Guernsey cattle brought high prices. Correspondingly high prices were bid for other farm stock, implements, machinery, hay, grain, etc.

The Legion ladies' auxiliary bingo last Wednesday brought out 90 players. With the increasing number attending these events there is little doubt they can be carried on throughout the spring season, members say. The quality of prizes, especially in the three specials is proving attractive. The next night will be Feb. 28.

Laskay W. I. Family Night, Feb. 13, was attended by over 60 who found the pot-luck supper a full meal and the sound movies and colored films excellent entertainment. The McDonald Sisters played the piano.

Douglas Scott, John Pringle of King and two others of Toronto returned last week from Florida after an enjoyable vacation. They motored to many points of interest but at certain places found the weather cooler than they had anticipated. Douglas, for one, thought King looked "pretty good" when he drove into Glen Echo, his home.

OAK RIDGES

Mr. A. E. Smith was inducted into Oak Ridges Lions Club by Deputy District Governor Dick Edmunds of Richmond Hill at the regular meeting. Gordon Rowe spoke on the forthcoming Lions carnival, urging organization at an early date to ensure all possible success for the second annual event. Lion Louis Colombo was unable to address the club. Mention was made of the birthday anniversary of Charter Night due this spring.

At the regular euchre and cribbage night sponsored by Lions at Ridge Inn on Monday, Feb. 19, eight euchre and four cribbage tables were conducted by Walter Geary, Ken Farquharson and Harry Hutchinson. It was decided to hold these parties on the first and third Mondays of each month.

Lion Ken Farquharson working on the boys and girls committee for the club is planning to enter Lions-sponsored teams in competition.

Visitors of Mrs. James J. Wall last week and later for the weekend were, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee and their two children, Leonard and Sandra of Thornhill, Mary and Margaret Wall, Downsview, Mr. Eli Ganjalouski, Mrs. Wall's brother, and his wife of St. Catharines.

ZEPHYR

There passed away on Tuesday, Feb. 13, one of Zephyr's well known residents in the person of Mr. J. W. Rynard. The late Mr. Rynard had not been in the best of health for some time. His passing came rather suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. Palmer, in Toronto.

Mr. Rynard, was a graduate of Toronto Normal School, and was Principal of the Zephyr Public School for a number of years, retiring from that position about six years ago. He is survived by his widow, the former Edythe Heisie, also three children, Mary, Mrs. Palmer, Toronto, Wilfred, of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, Ruby, Mrs. Canning of Stamford, Conn., U.S.A., also eight grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Campbell of Mount Albert. The eldest son, Dr. Wm. Rynard of Stamford, Conn., predeceased him, about 2 years ago.

Interment took place at Zephyr cemetery. Mr. Rynard belonged to the Masonic order, and was buried under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge. The large funeral and many floral tributes show in a measure, the high esteem in which the late Mr. Rynard was held.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family and friends in their sad bereavement.

NEW S. A. OFFICERS

Mrs. Major C. L. Worthylnke is the new commanding officer and Capt. T. Worthylnke is the new assistant at the Salvation Army corps in Newmarket. Mrs. Worthylnke was formerly stationed at Montreal and Capt. Worthylnke at Sussex.

ST. JAMES' W.A. PLANS FOR BAAZAR

The February meeting of the St. James' branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. E. Kiteley, with 17 members present. The Scripture reading was taken by Mrs. L. Selby and in the absence of Mrs. Thomas through illness, Mrs. E. Kiteley read the concluding chapters of the study book.

It was decided by the meeting to hold our usual bazaar in the fall and to start working towards it now. It was suggested that we hold "showers" at some of our meetings of articles for the bazaar and this was decided upon. April will be an apron shower.

Anyone having any used or new clothing, soap, washcloths, etc., are asked to bring these to our next meeting for the sale.

The meeting closed with prayer and then a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mabbett, Mrs. Steckley and Mrs. Robinson.

now, attached to the R.C.A.C. on a six months course as officer cadets. The course will be completed in May.

Peter Lee King, Toronto, and Peter Styrm, Oak Ridges, are taking the same course over a three year period by attending officer training classes at night at the University of Toronto. Sgt. Peter King had his "pips" pinned on his uniform last Tuesday night by the C.O., making him an officer cadet. Formerly of Aurora, Pete King is a Chinese Canadian who in the early forties was a popular student at Aurora high school. He was a well known athlete at the school, particularly as a basketball player.

The squadron is fortunate in having the use of Bill Linton's farm east of Aurora as training grounds. The Rangers are the best friends old Bill has and are the only ones he welcomes to his farm which consists mostly of sand hills. Occasionally members of the squadron take out food to his shack and he wears a great coat they donated to him recently.

"We certainly are lucky to have an area like that to train in," the Major said. "Not many reserve units have a place like that which they can use at any time."

political meetings, town organizations and all other town interests supplying for use of the hall, having regard to the best interests of the town of Aurora.

Mr. Glass said that the recreation commission would do much of the renovation required in the building itself, with volunteer labor if necessary, but he pointed out that the terms of the lease of the building stipulated that it be returned to the town in its original condition.

Members of the council for the most part argued that Aurora had several public halls, and that when the old public school building is vacated, it would be available to such groups as the recreation commission.

Councillor Victor Jones pointed out that the school was not yet vacant, and the Mechanics' Hall would be shortly. He suggested that the hall might be kept by the town for the time being, and then disposed of.

school. "You mean to say there are three rooms vacant in the schools? And the school board came to us and told us that it was most urgent that the new Prince Charles school be built," commented Mayor Joseph Vale.

"And now you are just filling up the class rooms by taking outside pupils," said Reeve Arthur D. Evans.

It was pointed out by Mr. Stiver that the board had decided on a school after a careful survey, that according to the rate of increase in the school population the schools will be filled again within three or four years. "We could find no place to put students in at all in town and because of overcrowding we had to have a new school," Mr. Bell said. It was also pointed out that the outside pupils are not being taken in as extras, that they have already been attending Newmarket schools.

Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spillette said that a joint school with East Gwillimbury had been suggested before the Prince Charles school had been built.

"Are you accusing us of having turned down such a proposal previously?" Mr. Bell asked the deputy-revee.

"No. Don't misunderstand me," the deputy-revee replied. "I didn't say that it was turned down by the school board."

Council decided no to appoint an arbitrator that night and it was suggested by Mr. Spillette that the auditor look over all the financial figures involved before an arbitrator was appointed. "After the arbitrator is appointed is no time to be looking into the figures," he said, "so I suggest we do that first."

Farm Forum News

Hot! Farm Radio Forum was of the opinion that Canadian Federation of Agriculture and international farm organizations were valuable to the farmer. The members felt that farmers need some sort of organization to look after their interests, that such an organization creates international friendship, and assists in opening new markets.

The forum met at the home of R. Cupples. There were two discussion groups, led by W. McFarlane and Walter Rate.

TEACHINGS OF JESUS SAID BEST WEAPON

The Evangeline auxiliary of the W.M.S. of Trinity United church, Newmarket, met on Feb. 13 in the school room with an attendance of 30. In the absence of Mrs. J. A. Millar, Mrs. E. Walton, the president, conducted the devotional, taking as her theme, "What is Christian Living?" Mrs. E. M. Wood and Mrs. C. S. Gilbert played two delightful piano solos.

Mrs. A. M. Colville gave an amusing, detailed account of the annual W.M.S. meeting of Toronto Centre Presbytery which was held in St. James-Bond United church, Toronto. She said that much emphasis was put on the organization of junior groups such as Baby bands, Mission bands and C.G.I.T. groups. "It is very important for we adults to inculcate into the minds of our young children the teachings of Jesus. This would be our strongest weapon to fight communism," said Mrs. Colville. She said that there is a great need for warm clothing in Japan and eastern Germany.

Plans were made for the St. Patrick's tea on Friday, March 9. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

TEACHERS STUDY NEW CURRICULUM

Despite inclement weather, a large number of women teachers of York 1 met in Prince Charles school, Newmarket, Feb. 7, with Mrs. Pope, president, in charge of the meeting.

Mr. Rorke of Lindalee Needle Weaving, Toronto, gave a talk on the origin of Lindalee weaving and demonstrated his work. Many varied, colourful woven articles were on display for the members.

As a highlight of the business session of the meeting, O. M. MacKillop, inspector of public schools, divided the teachers of his inspectorate into nine groups of ten to 15 teachers each, for study groups. These study groups plan to meet monthly to discuss "Child Development" as a basis for the new curriculum revision.

A light lunch and cup of tea was served at the close of the meeting.

Needlecraft News

by Pauline Roy

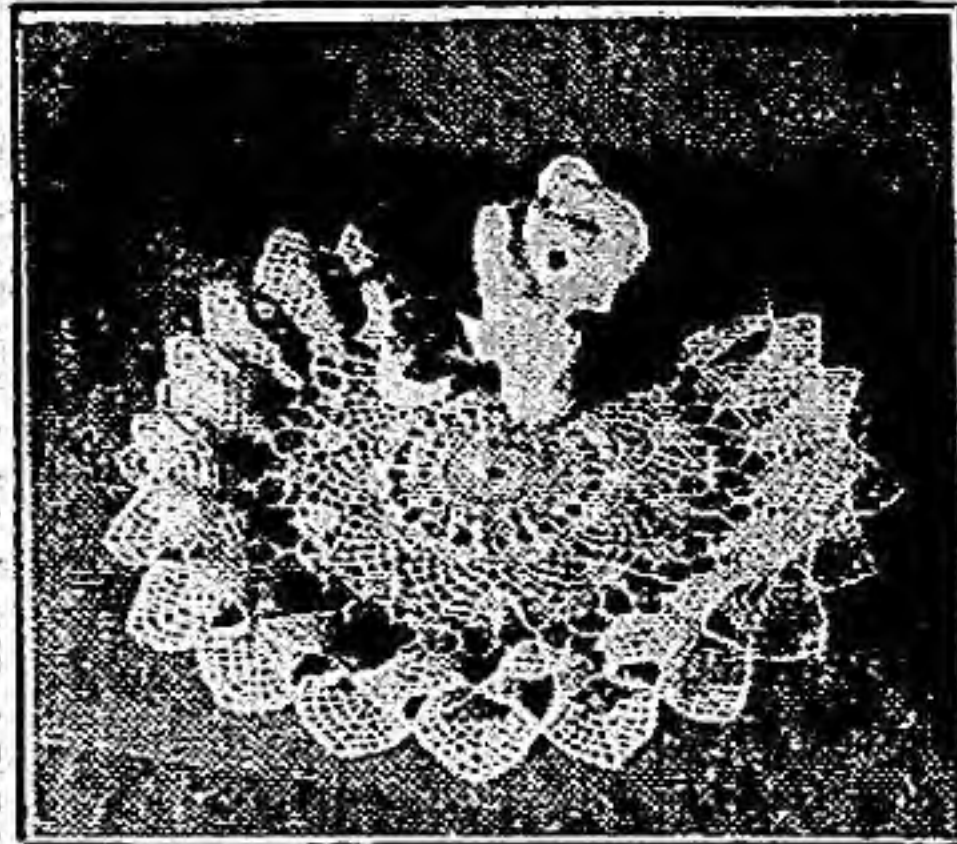

ENTERTAINING at home hits a peak during the winter months. You invite friends over for an evening of Canasta, and they in turn ask you over to hear their newest recordings or just to sit around and talk. In the midst of all this social activity you may wish to add a fresh note to your living-room, your bedroom or your foyer.

It's important to pay special attention to the smaller items—they make a great deal of difference. How about your lampshades? Are they dull or dirty? Pieces of chintz, gingham, cretonne or other informal fabrics make crisp, new lampshades. Or you might try removing the parchment or silk from your old lampshade and winding the frame with wool. Your window shades cover a large area in your room when they are shown. If they are ugly they can spoil an otherwise lovely effect of fresh curtains, potted plants or pottery arrangements you may use to brighten your windows. You can make new shades yourself, quite easily, using the same rollers and sturdy new pieces of chintz in decorative patterns.

If the headboard of your bed is old-fashioned or unattractive it can be brought up-to-date and beautified with a modern slip cover. Quilted headboards are extremely modern and attractive and fun to make. Another new note to add to your bedroom is a handsome stuffed bolster, made from any bedspread material. Old mirror frames can be covered with ruffles of material or, if the frames are flat, the material can be pasted to the frames. Wastebaskets are rejuvenated in like manner. To make all these changes, get out your needle and thread, some fabrics, and discover the fun of changing drab corners into bright spots.

Your tables can be dressed up with crocheted doilies—and here's one that's a little out of the ordinary. Something new has been added to the traditional table doily, a crisp, fluted edge that stands away from the table in a double tier of points. This ten-inch size is fine for your small table, and a potted plant or vase. If you would like crocheted doilies for making this doily, called FULL BLOOM, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Dept. of this paper and request Leaflet No. D-139.

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

THE HEAVENS PROCLAIM

If we had lived in Egypt long before the Light of the World, we might have worshipped at the shrine of Isis, the goddess of the moon. I wonder what those worshippers would have read into the wonderful and beautiful sight that gladdened our eyes one night not long ago?

Like a golden boat on the dark blue sea of the heavens, floated the moon while on her forward tip, like a glorified light, rested a star. The followers of Isis would have been sure that she was about to make known some wonderful discovery.

We no longer believe that Isis as Mother Nature rules our destinies, nor have we astrologers to read all sorts of things into nature's marvels, but we can rejoice in the fact that "the heavens declare the glory of God and the earth showeth forth His handiwork".

Christian Women in a Modern World

Recently at a Toronto Central Presbyterian meeting of the W. M.S. held in St. James' Bond church, I listened to Mrs. Aubrey Love speak on this subject. I listened to it at a bad time—you be the judges!

Having gotten up at 5 o'clock, gotten breakfast, made a lunch and sent the man of the house on his way, absent minded to a little myself and tried to pacify five irritated cats, I was tired when Mrs. Walton called for me, but revived in the friendly atmosphere of the bus and the morning session of the meeting. One heard with pleasure of

'CANDLE IN DARK BETTER THAN CURSE'

The Newmarket Women's Institute had Dr. W. A. Reddick, superintendent of the Ontario hospital, Aurora, as the guest speaker at the February 15 meeting. "Better to light a candle than curse the darkness", and this is what is being attempted at the school, he told his audience.

For a full hour the speaker gave many interesting facts that have been discovered in research on mental illness. Dr. Reddick believes that a mentally deficient child cannot be educated to think a problem through but that he can be trained to do things that will make him a better citizen.

It is not true that there are more cases of mental illness today than in former years. The over-crowding of our institutions is caused rather by our attempts to have victims of these ailments trained to lead useful lives.

There are many varieties of mental ailments. During the course of his informative address, Dr. Reddick outlined many of these for the Institute members and their guests. He urged that everyone should make his greatest effort to keep his mind at a happy medium. This is especially important for parents as it helps to make children self reliant.

The great need today, concluded Dr. Reddick, is for health clinics where both children and adults can be checked and properly diagnosed under trained personnel. In this way many who are suffering from minor mental illnesses could be treated before their ailments became serious.

W.A. VALENTINE TEA GRAND SUCCESS

A very attractive Valentine tea was held by the Woman's Association of Trinity United church, Newmarket on Wednesday, Feb. 14, under the leadership of Mrs. M. B. Seldon.

On entering the room which was gaily decorated with hearts and red and white streamers, one visited the hake table which was a very popular spot. It was convoked by Mrs. J. E. Morris and Mrs. Elnan Campbell. Their assistants from groups one and two were Mrs. Elgin Evans, Mrs. S. Quant and Mrs. L. Paynter. The white elephant table came in for its share of attention. It offered a wide variety of articles for sale with Mrs. T. A. Mitchell in charge.

In the tea room, the table was prettily decorated with a silver bowl of red tulips flanked by red tapers in silver holders. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Howard Care, Mrs. W. Stephens, Mrs. E. Richardson and Mrs. H. Hooker. The color scheme was carried out on the smaller tea tables where red roses nestled in rose bowls.

The dining room was convoked by Mrs. R. Pritchard, Mrs. R. Hilliard, Mrs. P. Hamilton and Mrs. C. Wheeland. Their assistants from groups three, four and five included Mrs. A. Baillie, Mrs. L. Hicks, Mrs. A. Spear, Mrs. R. Wallace, Mrs. A. McKay and Mrs. A. VanWinsen. Mrs. R. D. Clarke was in charge of the nursery.

A large number of ladies braved the icy pavements and with their attendance made the tea a real success. The members of the Woman's Association extend their sincere appreciation for this patronage.

Boiled Dinners Offer Variety

During the cold, blustery days of winter many homemakers are trying to tempt jaded appetites with flavorful, nutritious food. What could have more appetite appeal to any family than the old-fashioned boiled dinner?

Potatoes, turnips, cabbage, onions, in fact almost any vegetable you can name will combine well with a variety of meats for this favorite Canadian dish. The flavors of foods served in the same meal should harmonize. For instance, with a boiled dinner consisting of corned beef and cabbage, cabbage salad would be a tiresome repetition.

Flavor in a boiled dinner is one of the prime requisites so care should be exercised in choosing vegetables which best suit different types of meats.

Sauerkraut would distract from the delicate flavor of lamb but most everyone enjoys its flavor with pork. Some suggested combinations for meats and vegetables in boiled dinners are:

Corned beef served with wedges of boiled cabbage; pork hocks served with boiled sauerkraut; fresh beef brisket served with boiled onions, carrots, potatoes and turnips and flavored with horse-radish; ham hocks served with boiled onions, parsnips and carrots and flavored with bay leaf; braised lamb shanks served with potatoes and turnips and flavored with curry powder.

It's the cut that counts, whether it is in a new spring dress or in the meat chosen for a boiled dinner. The less expensive cuts of meat are often spurned mainly because of the lack of knowledge of how to prepare them. The less expensive, less tender cuts, often referred to as utility cuts, when properly cooked with moist heat are just as satisfying, just as nourishing as the more tender cuts cooked with dry heat.

When buying beef cuts for a boiled dinner, fresh or corned beef brisket and rump or plate pot roasts are the most economical. Pork, fresh, pickled or smoked, may be used to prepare this flavorful dish. Specially suited are fresh, pickled or smoked hocks, picnic shoulders and cottage rolls. The flesh of fresh pork should be firm, fine-grained and light greyish pink in color and the fat should be clear and white.

After purchasing the meat, care should be taken in proper storage. It should be unwrapped as soon as it is brought home because the wrapping paper may draw the juices from the meat. Packaged meat should be removed from its original wrapper. The meat should then be wiped with a damp cloth, placed on a dry plate, covered loosely, preferably with waxed paper, and placed in the refrigerator.

The next factor in meat cooking after buying wisely, storing correctly, is cooking carefully. The meat for a boiled dinner should be covered with boiling water and cooked slowly at a simmering temperature until tender. For those who enjoy the "browned" flavor and appearance of boiled dinners the meat may be browned in fat before the boiling water is added. If corned beef is used it should be covered first with cold water and brought to the boil, then drained and the water discarded.

No matter what variety of meat is used, the success of the dish depends upon slow, even cooking. The vegetables are added only long enough before the meat is cooked to allow them to become tender. As well as salt and pepper, seasonings such as horse-radish, bay leaf or curry may be added, if desired. It is most important not to overcook either the meat or the vegetables, as it is desirable to retain both their color and their shape.

When using the pressure saucepan for such meals, it is wise to follow the manufacturers' directions for the particular type of cooker which you own. Check the cooking time in some cases, even if, as a matter of fact, it may make the difference between a perfectly cooked and an over-cooked meal.

Skinny men, women gain 5, 10, 15 lbs.

YOUNG HOPEFULS BY DOROTHY MUIR BOWMAN

Kenny Asserts His Rights

Kenny, eight years old, really asserted himself, much to his mother's great embarrassment. Kenny had been put to bed at his usual time, 8 p.m. It was supposed he would be fast asleep before the bridge club ladies were to arrive at 8:30. Kenny always asleep within 20 minutes after he went to bed.

On this particular night, Kenny's mother was busy downstairs and Kenny wasn't asleep when the ladies started to arrive. He lay quietly in his room and didn't even move when a couple of the ladies peeked in to see if he were asleep. He seemed to meet with their approval and they simply whispered their way out of his room. Once on the other side of the door, their voices returned to the normally excited pitch.

One was heard to remark, "Imagine sleeping through all this chatter!" This remark was followed by a great outburst of laughter.

Kenny couldn't quite see the humor in the situation. However, he dreamed a while in a half-conscious state and began to think that "chatter" was just the right word to apply to all the gabble that reached his ears. He couldn't understand a word of the conversations; it just sounded like everyone talking at the same time with an occasional outburst of laughter.

It was just time to serve refreshments, when Kenny decided to make a move. He jumped out of bed and ran downstairs to the landing and absolutely yelled: "Hoy, how do you expect anyone to sleep around here with all your chatter?" Kenny didn't wait for an answer, he just flew back to his room and banged the door after him.

The guests were stunned. Mother was embarrassed. Was Kenny justified in speaking his mind? Was Kenny justified in being so rude? Rudeness is never justified, but learning to be diplomatic takes time. Certainly Kenny had just cause for complaint. Speaking to his mother privately would have been more diplomatic, though.

The following year a company was formed in Toronto. Since then Guiding has spread throughout the dominion to include girls in isolated spots as Lone Guides, handicapped girls in special companies and regular Guide companies in villages towns and cities.

In the beginning, Lord Baden-Powell, the founder of Scouting, had no intention of including girls in his four-fold program—intelligence, handicrafts, health and service. But the girls were not to be excluded. They watched their brothers and were fired with the same enthusiasm for this new adventure.

Uninvited, they attended the early Scouting rallies equipped with their haversacks and staves. Guiding during the intervening four decades has continued to parallel the Scout movement. Today a girl must read "Scouting for Boys" (boy's edition) or "The Life of Baden-Powell" (published by the Scouts) before she can qualify for her first class badge.

In Guiding as in Scouting there are no barriers as to race, color, class or creed. Over seven and a half million boys and girls in practically every country outside the Iron Curtain belong to this movement which is the largest uniformed, non-military youth movement in the world. It has been likened to a Junior United Nations.

Guiding is a citizenship training program with a continuity which takes a girl step-by-step from Brownies through Guides to the Rangers, "The nursery of national service". It covers the age period from eight to 18 and many girls remain as Guides, the adult leaders of the groups.

Guiding provides wholesome recreation, as well as friendships with other girls of the same age having similar interests. It encourages outdoor activities and helps develop habits of observation and self-reliance. Through a system of over 60 proficiency

The Junior Ladies' Aid of the Christian Baptist church, Newmarket, held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. William Robinson on Tuesday, Feb. 13. The president, Mrs. Robert Dick, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Margaret Arkinstall.

Dr. Arkinstall spoke on northern Ontario, confining her remarks to the district around Hearst and Kapuskasing. She told of its people, climatic peculiarities and recent developments. Her interesting talk was much enjoyed by the ladies.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "Sweet Hour of Prayer" followed with prayer by Mrs. William Andrews. An Irish ballad and a piano solo by Lois Robinson completed the program.

Plans were discussed for the annual Blossom Tea. It was decided that it would be held on May 10 in the Sunday school room of the church.

After the business session, a delicious Valentine lunch was served by the hostesses, Miss Stella Cook, Mrs. Lewis Combs, Mrs. Ivan Winkworth and Mrs. Jack McArthur.

Humane Society officials seized the herd of goats of William Linton east of Pine Orchard after farmers complained that the animals were running wild and that some had died for lack of care. Mr. Linton, 81, is a recluse who has lived amid the barren hills for years, and is sometimes known as the "Hermit of Vivian".

CANADIAN PLOWMEN ABROAD

by V. C. PORTEOUS * Director
ONTARIO PLOWMEN'S ASSOCIATION

Editor's note: This is the fifth of a series of weekly stories which V. C. Porteous, a director of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, is writing about the visit of Canada's champion plowmen to the British Isles, Belgium, Denmark and the Netherlands.

London, England: By now you have probably heard that Herb Jarvis, Agincourt, the champion Canadian horse plowman, was the winner of two trophies at the West of England Championship Plowing Match in Cornwall. They were for the best overseas competitor and the best land in his class and naturally we are thrilled about it.

It was a good day for plowing, some said it was the best match weather in years, and the soil cut like cheese. I would say most of the competitors were "artists" in the art of plowing. But unlike Canadian plowmen, they used every conceivable device to dress up their work. After the match we inspected the field and it was a beautiful sight to behold.

In the evening there was a banquet at which Herb was presented with the silver trophies he had won while Hugh Leslie, the champion Canadian tractor plowman, and I received books dealing with the history of Cornwall. In addition we received plaques bearing Cornwall's coat-of-arms. They will always remind us of an occasion when we were entertained royally and treated lavishly.

But the variety of plowing methods that I observed at the Cornwall match only confirmed my opinion that what we need is a set of standard rules for international matches. When I was called upon to speak I urged the adoption of some such rules and as this was reported in the press I may hear from others here who share my ideas.

Briefly the above are the highlights of our visit to the south of England. As you have probably gathered from these letters, most of which are written about 6 a.m., neither space nor time permits a detailed account of our travels. But I'll try to fill you in since the last letter which, if I remember rightly, was written in Holland on the day we were leaving for Belgium.

Visit Arnhem

That day we drove to Arnhem, scene of one of the bloodiest engagements of the last war. It was here in September, 1944, that the British First Airborne Division, which included many Canadians, fought with great valor for nearly a week against great odds. Only 1,800 of these hard-pressed paratroopers managed to fight their way out of the trap. But in April of the following year, as you know, the British forces of the First Canadian Army took Arnhem and then pressed on to the "big kill".

All of that took place about six years ago but there still is extensive shell and bomb damage to be seen although we were told, and could see, that a great deal of rebuilding and repair work has taken place since the end of the war.

While there, we visited what to us is a rather unusual business institution. It is concerned mainly with structural estimates. This firm estimates and prepares bids on contracts for structural undertakings from a house to a huge engineering project. In order to do this they maintain research and experimental laboratories; huge drafting rooms; record libraries and just about everything pertaining to engineer's estimates. It is the largest firm of its kind in the world, privately owned, and has been in business for 60 years.

Brussels and Antwerp

From Arnhem we drove across the Netherlands-Belgium border to Antwerp and then to Brussels, two great Belgium cities that are so well known to the lads who served here in the two world wars.

We visited the Belgium Agricultural Academy and Experimental Station. This institution is much like our Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph but it is not engaged in field crop experimental work to the same extent as is O.A.C. Later we had dinner in Brussels with representatives of the Belgium Agricultural Council, the Department of Agriculture and the Esso Company in Belgium, who were our hosts. During the meal we learned a lot about agricultural conditions in Belgium and the country generally.

The following day was Sunday but we were able to do some shopping for most of the stores were open. Later we visited the site of the Battle of Waterloo, about 12 miles from Brussels. In my mind insofar as British history is concerned it is one of the most important places in the world. The monument there is an earth mound 120' high which, we were told, was built entirely by women. On top of it there is a sort of pavilion from which one can see for miles in any direction. It houses a panoramic painting, the best I have ever seen, of the battle.

We did not see as much of Belgium as we wanted, because to be in Cornwall on schedule we had to take the plane for London that night.

Indifference to War Prospect

To sum up our impressions of the continent the thing that stands out is the seeming indifference of the people to prospects of another war. It would almost appear that generations now living here are so used to the idea of war that its inevitability is taken for granted. To me it's like living at the foot of a volcano, safe now, but for how long no one knows.

The peoples of Denmark, Holland and Belgium differ from one another in many respects but all of them are alike in their love of their country. It's my personal belief that the only solution to the problems of western Europe is union under one government but I doubt, in the light of this nationalism, if it can be accomplished in the immediate future. The sad part is that these countries by themselves are comparatively weak and represent easy prey for any aggressor, yet if they united they would be a tower of strength. They all have a sincere desire to protect themselves but they seem to be helpless under present conditions. At least, this is how it appears to me.

But enough for now as we must get ready to leave for Northern England and then to Scotland.

Oak Ridges News

CORR., MRS. L. E. ROLLING, PHONE KING 8

An epidemic of influenza is making inroads on many district families. While the disease is not of a serious nature, it has taken whole families in its grip.

Marilyn Bolsonello, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Bolsonello, had a stubborn case of measles. From Tuesday until last Saturday night, her temperature continued to mount, reaching 105.6 points. Her mother said when the rash showed up it appeared somewhat unusual. Her young life lay in the balance by Saturday evening as her parents anxiously waited for a change for the better. It came and her delirium subsided. She is still weak. During the anxious moments Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bull attended the bedside of their niece. Mrs. Bull, who is a nurse, was able to give valuable assistance. A junior pupil at Oak Ridges school, Marilyn's friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Donald Ash was 12 years old on Monday, Feb. 19. To celebrate the occasion his mother, Mrs. Robert Ash, gave her son a birthday party that evening with a dozen boys and girls of his age group as guests. The chief excitement of the party was the pony sleighride over the nearby field, with Donald driving the pony hitched to a small bob sled. The ride had to be done in relays as the sled only accommodates three or four at a time. Afterward games, music and refreshments to include the birthday cake took up the remainder of the evening.

Little Jennifer Mosley, six, fell prey to the 'flu bug during the weekend. Her mother remained away from the J. J. Wall office for a day or so to tend the young lady. A persistent cold got its way and Jennifer was forced to remain in bed, "a hardship she can scarcely tolerate".

Mrs. Thomas Maguire, Lake Wilcox, has received word that her son, Bud, is in a hospital in Japan from a bullet wound. He is with the Princess Patricia's and has seen action in Korea. Mrs. Maguire is anxious about her son's condition.

Bernard O'Brien, Princess Pats, Fort Lewis, Wash., writes his wife that military operations on skis are a large part of the training of the regiment. He is expected to home leave any time now. Mrs. O'Brien is looking forward to his arrival.

A softball club is being organized for Lake Wilcox boys by Mr. A. E. Patchell. Boys from 11 to 15 years are invited to apply by letter to enter the team giving their names and what positions they play, writing to Woodland Lodge, Aurora, R. R. 2. This is an opportunity which will give organized recreation this coming season for young lads at the lake.

The executive of Oak Ridges Home and School drafted a program for Fathers' Night to be held on March 12. A special speaker from the staff of the Toronto Evening Telegram is expected to speak on that date.

Mrs. George McEwan is about again after an automobile accident which is still confining her husband and her sister, Mrs. Edward McVey, to the house. Mr. McVey is better and has been able to travel to Richmond Hill for a short time where his business is established. The concern of neighbors, Toronto friends, and hydro associates of Mr. McEwan has brought many visitors to the McEwan home. Fifty calls to make inquiries on the day following the accident. Mr. and Mrs. McEwan feel grateful to everyone for the interest taken in their unfortunate mishap. Many offers of help were appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bull motored to Guelph to attend the funeral of Mr. Charles Barber, held on Monday. Mr. Barber was the father of Mrs. Bull's brother-in-law. They had intended to spend more time there but the acute illness of their niece, Marilyn Bolsonello, prevented this.

Anne is entering the Kiwanis Music Festival for a second time.

Mrs. C. L. Stephenson and others from Aurora attended a meeting of the Canadian club in Toronto last week when Sir Louis Beale of Great Britain spoke on world conditions. He pointed out that since 1945 the democracies have put "too much stress on luxuries and not enough on organization".

The J. J. Wall plumbers are nearing completion of plumbing installation in a new home being built at King for Mr. Ross Stewart, Toronto.

King City And District

King community needs a hall. It can be built by the co-operation and pooling of the resources of organizations. This was the opinion reached at an open discussion sponsored by King Women's Institute on February 13. While the forum was originally intended to be wholly informal, spirited discussions and animated opinions favoring a community centre spearheaded the appointment of Rev. W. E. Smalley to act as chairman for a meeting of organization heads within six weeks to prepare for a public meeting. Mrs. A. E. Jarvis, W.I. president, was chairman of the meeting.

Mrs. Gordon Wells, convener of community activities and public relations, explained the purpose of the forum. The W.I. has set aside a trust fund toward a proposed hall and the branch felt that public opinion should be explored. If an agreement were reached, all could work for the project, she said. "We must be ready for a hall when it comes".

Mrs. Ivan Specht, spokesman for the W.I., outlined the procedure of establishing a hall as specified by the Community Halls Act. The property, she said, must be vested in the municipality. A board of seven is set up. This procedure gives a government grant not exceeding $5,000, the amount based on 25 percent of the actual cost of the community centre. Mrs. Specht told of the hall at Bond Head, built for $21,000. Starting with $1,500, that community raised enough funds and gave enough voluntary labor to complete the job. Forum Speakers

George Brown, president of Lake Marie and King Athletic Association, which has a substantial amount raised toward a proposed memorial hall, said his organization does not propose a costly building, but "something it can handle". Construction of a building is hoped for in the near future. Others suggested a quonset hut which has proven satisfactory in other localities.

The King Legion president, Donald Findlay, said some sort of hall is needed. The branch needs a building which would accommodate a "Legion home". Whether his organization would collaborate for a portion of a community hall or an attachment, he could not state. He felt his organization is interested in the project.

Mrs. Beryl Fleet, president of the Legion ladies' auxiliary, said her group would stand 100 percent behind a hall project. While the organization set up two years ago does not have financial means, at present, it would work for a hall.

J. L. Grew, chairman of the library board, said the organization would be interested in helping. The library is greatly in need of better quarters. He wondered if the tightening of building materials has reduced the opportunity to build.

Mrs. Mary Hood, leader of King Cub Pack, was strongly in favor of the idea. She felt from the children's point a hall is a "must". While the pack is not financially in a position to render assistance, it would definitely be given a real "chance to strive for this end".

Rev. W. E. Smalley said Mount Albert was amazed at the income derived from its community centre. It proves a cultural asset not only to a village, but other groups from outside would use the hall. He said the project would reap benefits beyond expectation.

A representative for Kingcrafts Guild, which has 60 members, saw the need for a hall. It was felt a library room could accommodate the Guild.

Bob McLeod, head of King city Wrestling club, pointed out that gymnasium quarters over the athletic club rooms had been fitted up by local voluntary labor. He said if all groups knit together a building could be erected. His groups need more space for wrestling schools. He thought the Ontario Wrestling Championships could be swung to King. He suggested renovating the Crossley hall as a means to immediate realization of a building. This idea was not generally favored by the meeting because of the expenditure involved and the location on the main street.

George Harvey, Scoutmaster, thought a community hall is excellent for Scout work. A true community hall has many uses, he said, and much of the work could be done by local artisans and tradesmen.

W. E. Barker, vice president of the athletic association, felt a hall project can be accomplished "by community co-operation and pooling of resources". His society has taken an interest in this matter for several years. A temporary structure would be neither creditable or satisfactory. As a former township councillor, Mr. Barker has knowledge of such undertakings.

H. A. Phelps, Richmond Hill, an executive of King Legion struck a high note of confidence when he declared King could do what some other localities have done. "Build a basement or a dug-out, but get started and go on and on from there. Your community will fall in line when the usefulness of accommodation is once realized." Mr. Phelps, who is a former councillor of Vaughan twp., reiterated a mechanical point emphasized by Mr. Findlay, that a hall receiving government help must be built on "municipally owned land".

At this point Mr. Brown was questioned if the athletic association would consider "turning over the site of a hall built in memorial park to the municipality". He replied he could not speak for the association. His own opinion led him to believe that would be doubtful.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

As a direct result of dropping attendance in the National Hockey League, a tendency to cry "Wolf" has developed among the sports experts. Indiscriminate use of such headlines as "Is Hockey Dying?", has contributed little more than added fuel for controversy. But the answer to the "declining interest" problem in hockey can probably be found in the game itself. Let's examine the pros and cons.

Pro and Con:

In the Good Old Days (we're told) hockey players went a full 60 minutes and usually finished the evening full of vigor and vitality. "No wonder hockey today is passing out," states an ancient fan. "Why, the boys who are playing now turn blue in the face after three minutes of play!"

Others chant: "They ruined hockey when they put the Red Line into the game." These and a dozen other opinions are trotted out each time a new prophecy of doom strikes at the game through the sport pages. And yet, it was to please the fans that the game was speeded up to the point where it requires 18 players to maintain the constant action, drive and excitement necessary to attract the multitude. The Red Line was created to determine "off-side" passes and do away with the older system of long-distance passing which, all too often, was utilized as a measure of easing the pace. Constant substitution and changing lines "on the run" are two other methods which have assisted greatly in speeding up the sport from a spectator point of view.

As to the claim that few modern players could play the "60-minute" game, it is only necessary to point out Milt Schmidt of Boston. Ted Kennedy of the Leafs and a dozen others specializing in "hell for leather" hockey. These men could certainly play alongside Babe Dye, Cyclone Taylor or any other oldtimer you choose—but, admittedly, they would have to "pace" themselves to last the route. Therein lies the story, we think. In the older days the game was a slower affair—with the accent on individual style and method. Today the fans are treated to 60-minutes of "all out" hockey, played by men, continually fresh, aided by renovated rules and systems. If hockey is slipping, it can't be through lack of colour. The answer may possibly lie with the 70-game season. That's an eternity—when suspense is what is for sale.

Eligible Bachelors:

In case some of our feminine readers would care to know, there are only 35 single men in the National Hockey League. The fact that the married players outnumber the bachelors to an overwhelming extent may possibly help to explain the growing tendency to mayhem current in the N.H.L. Although we have not always managed to keep an accurate check on the statistical side of the bachelors, it appears that the married men have easily held their own. No doubt practice helps. Actually, the fact there are more married men playing professional hockey than single may also account for the high casualty list among referees. Few husbands have much patience for interfering "third parties". For what it's worth we gladly pass this last observation along to Referees Bill Chadwick, Hugh McLennan, Red Storey, etc.

War Amps' Key Tag:

Ever lose your keys? Well, I did last year, but within two days the postman dropped them in my mailbox, thanks to the tiny license plate supplied to me as a motorist by the War Amputations of Canada. This year again the War Amps are sending car owners a similar key tag. 25¢ is a mighty small charge for this wonderful service so be sure to mail those two-bits as soon as you receive your key tag from the Key Tag Service, 740 Bay St., Toronto. You'll be getting AT protection for your keys as well as doing your bit to help those brave fellows who did so much for you.

Public School Semis Show Lots of Action

The semi-finals in the Newmarket school league opened Saturday morning. The semis were a best two games, goals to count, set. In the pee-wee division, behind stellar net-minding of Horner's Ernie Hartley and Bears twine-guarder Walt Tennant, the two teams battled to a 0-0 deadlock. The chips are down in this Saturday's game.

Bisons sparked by a four-goal performance by Francis Lewis and a single sniping effort by Ian Dick, walked over Barons 5-1 and have a four-goal lead to protect next Saturday. Larry Bone was the sharp-shooter for the Barons.

In the squirt division, a sparkling three goal performance by Terry Peters and two goal sharpshooting effort by Don Bone carried Mr. Blackshaw's Rockets to a 5-0 win over the Spitfires. A pair of Pauls, Forhan and Blair, put up a big league show to split the scoring pie between them as the Marlboros rolled over the Flyers 5-1. Paul Forhan had three scoring credits, Blair two for the winners. Johnnie Haines was johnnie-on-the-spot to rifle in the Flyers' single.

Queensville Ties Series In Hectic Comeback

Queensville's hockey team has North York agog.

After being down 3-0 in games for Lake Simcoe crown with Vanderhoff, it tied the series at three-all with a 9-6 win over the Duffers on Thursday.

Alan Lockie was again the top scorer for Queensville, shooting in four. Howard Ash, Don Baisdon, Bun Hood, Elmer Paisley and Bill Burkholder grabbed a goal each for the winners. For Vanderhoff, Jim Preston had a two-goal performance to lead its attack. Bill Kingdon, Dave Richardson, Normie Nigh and Joe Lundy hit the rigging behind Lem Hall for single scoring credits.

Queensville made its big move in the first round, popping in five. Vanderhoff had trouble breaking down the tight defensive wall set up by Bill Burkholder and Ross Draper who were going great guns back of the blue-stripe.

English, French, Chinese, Russian and Spanish has replaced the lengthy system of translating in each of the five languages by turn. Listeners are provided with seat carphones which allow them to dial in on the speech in whatever language they desire.

While the mission of the student tour conducted by Mr. Newell was essentially to become acquainted with United Nations, other highlights of New York rated high according to individual interest. The air trip from Malton air port to La Guardia and return was a new experience for both.

A tour was made through the new luxury liner, S. S. Independence costing $25 million, weighing 26,000 tons, which left on its first trip on February 10 to Italy. The elegance and luxurious comfort of the ship was beyond description, the students said. The rooms, lounges, libraries and swimming pools and theatre were "marvellous", even to the floor coloring.

Twin D's Take Collis 4-2 As Schedule Ends

The Aurora Town League closed on just the right note to get the fans built up on the play-off scramble ahead. Monday the Ditch Diggers, who would rather beat the Collis "Tanners" than eat, thumped the Tanners 4-2. It was the second time the Tanners had their wings clipped this season. Bob Knight sparked the attack with two, Harold Stephenson and Mickey Sutton buzzed in around the Tannery cage to sink singles. Stan Kerr and Art Bonham outsped their mates to snipe one each in the Tannery cause.

Thursday, sparked by a three-goal performance by Harold Stephenson, the Ditch Diggers clipped the Victory Flyers 7-4. Bob Knight gave his mate, Stephenson, a run for the scoring honors with two while Mickey Sutton and Frank Young connected for singles. Dave Richardson was top scorer with the Flyers with two. Ed Richardson and Al Jones potted singles in the losing cause.

Friday the semis start, reports president Cliff Chapman, with Tanners and Flyers, and Monday, Merchants vs. Ditch Diggers. Both semis are best three-out-of-five.

N.H.L. Minors Resume Saturday A.M. Action

N.H.L. minor, absent for a week because of O.M.H.A. play-downs, sprang back to action Friday. Results: Red Wings 6, Maple Leafs 5; Canadiens 3, Black Hawks 2, and for the first time, a game was forfeit. Don Warner's Bruins picked up two easy points as Rangers failed to show with a team.

In the Red Wings-Leafs tilt, the Red Wings increased their first place lead by knocking off their nearest tormentors, the Maple Leafs. Freeman West was a one-man scoring show for the winners, popping in five, four unassisted and the fifth with help from Earl Lothian. The latter played a strong defensive game. Bob Wilson accounted for the Red Wings' sixth goal.

Bob Forhan single-handedly tried to match the Red Wings' sniping for four unassisted goals in the Leaf cause. Don McKnight picked his spot to let fly the Leafs' fifth.

In the Canadiens-Hawks tilt, Grant Morton from Bob Attwell, Jack Cain from Bob Attwell and Grant Morton from Jack Cain gave the Canadiens a 3-0 first period lead. The Canucks needed them all when the Hawks flew back into contention as Glen Keffer found the mark for two goals in the second period. John Graham helped his mate Keffer on one goal. The Hawks just failed to get the equalizer.

Spits Lose To Clippers, Mercurys

Newmarket Spitfires were victims of Owen Sound "Mercurys", the smart boys of the Big Seven, here Thursday. The Mercurys rapped in seven goals without a reply from the Spits in a blistering last period drive to walk away with a 14-2 win.

Ken Broughton from Denny Labine gave the Spits a first period tally and Joe Peat set Bill Johnston up in front of the Owen Sound cage for the Spits' number two marker. The Spits were without Al Shewchuk and coach Larry Molyneux, both down with the flu. Father T. J. McCabe handled the team. Joe Wolf, out earlier in the season, and Bob Hanna from the Rockets filled in the gaps.

Saturday night the Spits got back in the groove, before the semi-finals, holding Stouffville to a 5-4 edge on their home ice. This was a replay of the "lights out" game earlier in the season. Harold Tunstead fired a first period goal for the Spits while Myles McInnis, with two last period markers, and Denny Labine with a single, brought the Spits up within one of a tie.

Trolley League Dates Play-Off Schedule

Trolley League officials met Sunday to set up a play-off schedule. At the moment Aurora and Woodbridge are tied for top slot—they'll crack it with a game at Woodbridge tonight. Winged Wheelers have third clinched. Navy Vets and Dawes-Danforth are tied for fourth and last play-off spot with two wins each. They have this week to break the tie and will likely settle on a sudden-death game.

Play-off schedule: first and third, second and fourth, runs as follows: Feb. 26, Woodbridge or Aurora at Winged Wheelers; Feb. 26, Woodbridge or Aurora at Dawes-Danforth (Whitby); Feb. 27, Winged Wheelers or Dawes-Danforth or Navy at Woodbridge; March 2, Woodbridge or Aurora at Navy (Keswick), in the event Navy makes the play-offs rather than Dawes-Danforth.

Lindsay 7 Goals Ahead In Midget Third Round

Aurora Midgets advanced to the third round of the O.M.H.A. play-downs Thursday by defeating Bowmanville 9-5 in Aurora arena. Coming on top of a 6-3 in Bowmanville, it gave Aurora the home and home, goals to count, series by a 15-8 margin.

Gerald Chapman led the Aurora attack in the home victory with three.

Aurora ran into its first snag since hitting the O.M.H.A. trail Monday as they hit Lindsay. The strong Lindsay squad picked up a seven-goal lead to carry into Aurora tonight after a 9-2 win. Grant Edwards and Stew Wilson were the Aurora marksmen at Lindsay.

'Berg Takes Kettleby 8-6 To Near Top

Fans who are getting used to fast, torrid hockey in the Friday night set-to's in the King-Vaughan league had no complaints to offer as those "old friends", Kettleby and Schomberg, clashed. Schomberg pulled down an 8-6 verdict via a third period drive.

There even seems to be some question as to the score, Kettleby saying 7-6, Schomberg sticking with 8-6. Matter arose over the last goal—whether scored legally or not.

"Army" Carey, a late-comer with Schomberg, led with three goals, line-mate Nick Michnick had two while Don Marchant, Bill Winters and Ernie Hughes tipped the scales Schomberg way with single counters. For Kettleby Grant Firth, "the whirling dervish" of the ice lanes and ex-Aurora Bear, had a busy evening, chucking in three goals. Playing-coach Bill Attridge, Noel Ash and Jim Patton went for singletons. Playing coach Attridge will probably end up with a game suspension for his part in the last period "goings on" that had the fans jumping for joy.

The victory enabled Schomberg to move up within three points of front running Nobleton crew as Nobleton was getting its ears pinned back by Kleinburg 5-2. The other result of this surprise package was that Kettleby slid into the basement.

Aurora Pee-Wees Play At Maple Leaf Gardens

Bill Mundell's "under 12" band of pee-wee hockey warriors from Aurora went off to the Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday morning for the inter-urban Central Ontario Recreation Zone pee-wee championship - and were knocked out in round one. They lost a 5-0 decision to Brampton. Brampton carried on to the final round only to lose out 1-0 to the defending champions from Weston. "We took along 25 players," reports Coach Mundell. "We gave 'em all a chance to take to the Gardens ice and that was a red letter day for the lads."

Hoffman In Finals Of Town League

It will be Hoffman and Davis Leather for the Town League crown. Surprised?

Monday, Hoffman eliminated the Merchants, and Davis "Tanners" hung the knock-out punch on "Red" Waller's Specialty Cabinet Makers 8-1.

The McDonald-Benville "Ironmen" had to work overtime - ten minutes of it - before the last year champs were brought to the carpet. "Shorty" Greenwood was the Hoffman hero, shooting in the tying goal in the last minute of regular time and then busting the tie at the seven minute mark of overtime.

The Towners held a 6-3 lead going into the final round. Bob Smith and Ron Eves sparked the Towners' early drive with two each. Ken Groves and Harold Gwyn chipped in singles. Jack Staley, Don Baisdon, Harry Caranona, Lloyd Cudmore and Doug "Salty" Bunn kicked in with the Hoffman scoring fireworks before "Shorty" Greenwood took a personal hand in the ouster of the Towners.

In the nightcap Davis "Tanners" with Bruce Townsley and Ken "Speedy" Harman took the lions share of the scoring gravy with three each, and downed the Office Specialty 8-1. That gave the semi-final series to the Tanners in two straight. Robert Budd and Jack Groves uncorked the other successful salutes in on Tod Mosier in the Specialty cage. Barney Bishop was the marksman for the Specialty counter.

Bantams' Hopes Fade As Lindsay Triumphs

Newmarket's final hope along the O.M.H.A. play-off trail faded last Friday as Optimist bantams dropped a 5-1 decision to Lindsay and thereby had a 9-4 round mark registered against them.

The Optimist "half-pints", with an impressive winning record, faced the task of overhauling a one-goal deficit marked up by Lindsay on its home ice. Score there was 4-3. On Friday, however, Lindsay unleashed a hidden scoring punch. Lindsay grabbed a 3-1 lead in the first period, Grant Morton with Francis Lewis the helper giving the local fans their one and only chance to whoop it up. Lindsay closed up show with two in the final.

No matter the score, our youngest hopefuls with a bit of luck around the net—and a little more direction with their shooting, might still be in the hunt. A vote of thanks is due to coach Ken Broughton, Jack Hamilton, Frank Hollingsworth and members of the Optimist club, sponsors of the team.

At Lindsay, Bill Forhan, Don McKnight and Bobbie Wilson were the Newmarket goal getters with Brian Millian, Grant Morton, Ken Bell, Don McKnight and Bob Wilson drawing assists.

Newmarket: Murray Young, Grant Morton, Chas. McGuire, Bob Wilson, Ken Bell, Don McKnight, Bill Forhan, Francis Lewis, Don Thoms, Brad Walker, Jack Cain, Warren Townsley, Vern Hutchinson, Brian Millian, John McGuire.

Referee: Grant Blight and Ralph Makelin, Lindsay.
